GLASSWARE CODING

Each manufacturer has special individual processes used to treat their glassware. The following is a guide to the symbols used at the foot of the page throughout the preceding section designating the process used.

LIBBEY® GLASSWARE – PAGE 10-40, 60

✚ DuraTuff®
A special thermal after-process for "pressed" tumblers and stemware that produces durable glassware with prolonged service life.

★ Heat-Treated
A secondary process on "blown" glass, after the glass is formed. A special heating and rapid cooling process is performed on the upper portion where most abuse occurs. Increases resistance to thermal and mechanical shock. Recommended for fast service cycle operations.

● Safedge® Rim Guarantee
If the rim of any glass covered by this guarantee chips it will be replaced or the price refunded when returned to the dealer from whom it was originally purchased (does not cover breakage).

■ Safedge® Rim and Foot Guarantee
If the rim or foot of any one-piece stemware item chips it will be replaced or the price refunded when returned to the dealer from whom it was originally purchased (does not cover breakage).

▲ Finedge®
Features a minimum bead on the edge. This finely rimmed glassware brings subtle beauty to any establishment.

✖ Sheer-Rim/D.T.E®
Dura Temp Edge stemware and tumblers feature a beadless edge that is first cracked-off then polished to produce a fine, yet durable edge. Guaranteed against chippage of the rim.

✪ Hand Blown
Manufactured by hand, giving the glass unique individual characteristics. Capacities noted are minimum-ounce capacities and could vary upward considerably.

ANCHOR® GLASSWARE – PAGES 41-49, 61-63

✻ Sure Guard™ Guarantee
Guarantees the entire active foodservice line against chipping. If the rim of a tumbler or the foot or rim of a piece of stemware chips in normal use, it will be replaced or the price refunded when returned to the dealer from whom it was originally purchased (does not cover breakage).

✢ Rim-Tempered
Heat is concentrated on the rim area followed by a cooling process, which allows for a stronger, more durable product.

CARDINAL GLASSWARE – PAGES 50-59

❖ Fully Tempered
Up to 5 times more resistant to breakage. Offers fewer breakages, increased strength and safety for handlers—without the loss of style and elegance.

⁝ Kwarx® Advanced Material
Revolutionary material created specifically to allow sheer rim designs to obtain extreme strength and durability against chipping, breakage, scratching, and is guaranteed for up to 2,000 industrial dishwashing cycles. Completely transparent, making it perfect for tasting-quality glassware.

♦ Sheer Rim
Developed in Kwarx material, these sheer rim designs provide beauty, elegance and long lasting durability.

❑ Stackable
Specifically designed for stacking.

❖ Rim Strengthened
Adds strength and durability to affordability.

❍ Effervescence Plus
Develops an even, delicate effervescence, delighting the eyes and the taste buds alike.

GLASSWARE CARE & HANDLING

There are two causes of glass breakage: Mechanical Impact and Thermal Shock. Cracks that result from thermal shock usually form around abrasions caused by mechanical impact.

Mechanical Impact is the result of contact with another object. It may be a spoon, a beer tap or another glass. This contact can cause a minute abrasion, invisible to the eye. These abrasions weaken the glass and make it more susceptible to breakage from impact and thermal shock. Any severely abraded glass must be removed from service.

Mechanical Impact

Thermal Shock

Thermal Shock is the result of sudden temperature change. Glass holds temperature and a quick change can cause enough stress in the glass to cause breakage. For example, glass with ice in it cannot be emptied and put directly into the dishwasher, and pieces coming out of the dishwasher cannot be put directly into service. In both cases, the glass must be allowed enough time to reach room temperature—never put a cold beverage or ice into a warm or hot glass. Remember, the thicker the glass the more time it needs to reach room temperature.

Quick Tips

- Keep adequate inventory of glassware to prevent recently washed glasses from going directly into service, even during rushes.
- Place guides on scrap table for busboys to place glass, china and flatware in separate areas.
- Check dishwasher temperature twice daily. Replace worn glass washer brushes.
- Always use plastic scoops in ice bins. Metal scoops sometimes chip the glassware. Never scoop ice with the glass.
- Never put cold water or ice into a warm or hot glass.
- Ideally, bus glassware directly into racks, or use divided bus trays with flatware baskets.
- Color code or label your racks for different glassware types.
- Inspect your glasses routinely for severe abrasions and remove from service any that may become a safety hazard to your employees or guests.

DINNERWARE CARE AND HANDLING

While foodservice dinnerware is made to withstand the rigors of daily use, some basic care and handling guidelines will help to not only extend the life of your investment and reduce replacement costs, but also to uphold your establishment's image with serving pieces that look good down to the last bite.

Consider:

- Having your dishwasher serviced to ensure the rinse cycle is functioning properly and that the correct concentration of rinse agent is being dispensed.
- How other factors may affect the rate of wear on your dinnerware: higher quality flatware (like 18/10 stainless steel) is less likely to leave scratch marks, and certain foods and beverages (like those that are highly acidic) will stain tableware more quickly.
- Periodically soaking dinnerware using a soak agent that will help protect against the gradual build-up of proteins that contribute to staining and marks.

Never:

- Leave soiled dishes to stand overnight.
- Continue to use dishes with chips or cracks.

Always:

- Carefully scrape away any stuck-on food before washing. Use a rubber or plastic scraper only.
- Separate china, metalware and glassware into dedicated bus boxes.
- Wash soiled china as soon as possible.
- Store dinnerware away from food and prep areas.
- Pre-rinse with 110° to 120°F water.
- Carefully follow the directions on any solutions or chemicals to avoid etching the glaze surface.

SUGGESTED CHINA CARE

Avoid Thermal Shock: Taking china from cold chilled area and putting to use in oven or open heat could crack or warp china. Avoid chipping by taking care to remove one dish at a time from dishwasher. Save wear and tear on glaze by avoiding sliding dishes when stacking. Underside of non-glazed china foot will act like sand paper when sliding on to another plate. Proper quantities on hand allows for less wear and better rotation. Do not use metal scouring pads to remove stains or dried particles from china.

Avoiding Breakage: Do not stack cups one on top the other. Stack soiled dishes and clean dishes no more than 12 high. Are proper washing racks being used? Avoid stacking heavy weight china on top of light weight china. Use compartment racks where needed. Avoid carrying plates by hand or on arm to tables. Use separate bus boxes when bussing to clear table of china, glassware and flatware.

FLATWARE CARE

Corrosion in flatware occurs when chlorides in food soils dissolve and attack silverplating and stainless steel, permanently damaging their surfaces. Corrosion can result from several factors – the use of improper containers and compounds used for cleaning and storage, dirty presoak solutions, extra-long presoak times, and incorrect washing and drying procedures. Water and cleaning solutions can break down the flatware's protective oxide layer, and extended exposure to moisture increases the risk of rust.

Tableware should never remain soiled overnight. Presoaking is recommended, after which it should be immediately washed in high temperatures – low temperatures or chlorine baths will attack silver and metal. To prevent corrosion and film build-up, flatware must be rinsed thoroughly and dried immediately after rinsing.

To keep flatware looking new, a regular de-tarnishing and burnishing schedule must be established. In silverplated flatware, surface discolorations can be caused by silver sulfide deposits. In stainless steel, buildup of foreign material such as food soils or hard water deposits can cause a black, blue, or grey discoloration.

BUTANE TORCH USES

How do you plan to use your new butane cooking torch? The possibilities are limited only by your imagination. Use your SternoCandleLamp butane torch to:

Brown meringues.
A culinary torch will perfectly brown the peaks of meringue topping on fruit tarts, pies and baked Alaska.

Sear tomato skins.
Set a tomato on a heatproof surface or hold with tongs and heat with a torch until the skin starts to crack. Let cool, then peel.

Make a crisp topping for oatmeal.
Spoon cooked oatmeal into a bowl, sprinkle with a thin layer of sugar and heat with a torch until crispy.

Melt Cheese.
For a delicious finishing touch, top chili or onion soup with grated cheese and melt with a torch.

Toast a breadcrumb topping.
Stuff tomato or avocado halves with chicken or tuna salad. Sprinkle with buttered breadcrumbs and grated Parmigiano cheese, then heat with a torch until golden brown. Or simply brown the breadcrumb topping of mac and cheese with a culinary torch.

Roast peppers.
Roasting peppers is easier with a culinary torch than in a broiler because you can direct the flame with more precision. Hold a pepper with tongs and heat with a torch until the skin is charred. Place the pepper in a paper bag, let cool and then peel.

Glaze a baked ham.
Lay pineapple slices on the ham and sprinkle with sugar. Heat with a torch until the sugar caramelizes.

Indoor S'mores.
Spear a marshmallow on a metal skewer and use the culinary torch to brown it evenly, beginning with the torch further away so that it has a chance to heat through without getting burnt, then bringing the flame closer to finish the browning.

Create burnt sugar garnishes.
Place a greased cookie cutter on a silicone mat and sprinkle a thin layer of sugar inside the cutter. Heat with a torch until crisp, then lift off the cutter. Use the burnt sugar decoration to garnish hot chocolate, coffee drinks or desserts.

KEEPING YOUR GLASS COFFEE DECANTERS CLEAN

Filthy glass coffeepots are more than an eyesore; the old stains and baked-on coffee can affect the taste of your brew. Follow these strategies for making your glass coffeepot sparkle like new.

Vinegar: the Stinky Solution

Vinegar is a natural acid that dissolves coffee stains and hard-water mineral deposits from glass. Mix 2 cups of white vinegar with two cups of water and pour into the pot. Swish the solution around until the stains dissolve, or add two tablespoons of baking soda for extra scrubbing power. Rinse the pot thoroughly after cleaning to remove that pungent smell and taste of vinegar.

Salt, Baking Soda and Ice

This is a favorite trick of coffee baristas: fill the glass pot with crushed ice, two tablespoons of salt and two tablespoons of baking soda. Swirl the mixture around in the pot to create a scrubbing effect.

Lemon Juice to the Rescue

Like vinegar, lemon is a natural acid that can help get rid of coffee stains. Add a cup of lemon juice to the glass pot, fill with cold water and let soak overnight. The next morning, wipe the inside of the pot with a paper towel or use a soft bristle brush to scrub away any lingering stains.

HOW TO USE SANITIZER TEST STRIPS

Check the sanitizer manufacturer's instructions for concentration requirements. These may vary depending on the type of sanitizer and what you are using it for.

CHLORINE SANITIZERS

- Tear off a strip of test paper and dip it into room temperature (65°–75°F, 18°–24°C) sanitizing solution. The color of the strip should change right away.
- Remove the test paper strip and lightly dry it right away with a paper towel.
- Compare the color of the strip with the kit's color chart, which shows chlorine concentrations of 10-50-100-200 ppm (Item #DIS-302).

QUATERNARY AMMONIUM SANITIZERS

- Tear off a strip of test paper and dip it into room temperature (65°–75°F, 18°–24°C) sanitizing solution for 10 seconds.
- Remove the test paper strip and compare the color of the strip with the kit's color chart, which shows concentrations of 0-100-200-300-400 ppm (Item #DIS-202).

BLENDER OR FOOD PROCESSOR?

Both have areas of overlap but there are some tasks that one is better at doing than the other.

BLENDER

• Use a blender for such kitchen jobs as pureeing, emulsifying, blending and grinding.

• Blenders are suitable for making food and drinks such as smoothies, soups and sauces, liquid-based dips. They liquefy fruit well (unless it is really hard fruit). Often found behind the bar as an essential for making cocktails.

FOOD PROCESSOR

• Use a food processor for shredding, slicing, kneading (dough), grinding, chopping and grating.

• The wider work bowl of a processor makes it more suitable for larger, bulk processing over the blender. They can also be used for cutting in butter, creating vegetable chips, most dips, chopping nuts/chocolate/veggies or for mashing beans to a pulp.

BUYING SHELVING

When buying shelving, consider what you will be storing on the shelves. Shelving intended for refrigerated storage should meet different requirements than shelving for dry storage. Carefully consider the weight of the items you intend to place on shelving. Are you storing items that would be easier and safer to store on dunnage racks?

Items noted with an FOB truck are FOB Factory. Freight charges will be added to all orders placed. Non-returnable items.

CUTLERY CARE

Hand wash cutlery with mild detergent that is non-caustic, then towel dry. Washing cutlery by placing in an automatic dishmachine is NOT suggested. This process allows metals to rub and dull the blade. Chemicals may stain and pit the blade. Wood handles eventually fade in color and start to split. Avoid soaking cutlery. Avoid using bleach or chlorinated chemicals. This tends to pit stain-free and high-carbon steel. Avoid soaking cutlery in stainless steel sinks, pots and pans or aluminum pots and pans. This may allow for the transfer of electrons (galvonic action) from one metal to another, causing pitting. Remove cutlery from condiments when kept in aluminum or stainless steel pans.

SANI-SAFE® CUTLERY

- Manufactured from proprietary DEXSTEEL™, stain-free, high-carbon steel blades
- Individually ground and honed
- Textured, slip-resistant polypropylene handle
- Made in USA • White handle (colored handle on select items)

HOW TO USE A SHARPENING STEEL

Grasp the sharpening steel firmly with your left hand (if right handed), placing the thumb securely behind the guard.

Place the heel of the blade against the steel at a 90° angle (see figure A).

While keeping the cutting edge against the steel, raise the back of the blade approximately ¼" off the steel – or at 20° (see figure B).

Try to maintain this angle and apply constant, moderate pressure as you draw the blade smoothly across and down the full length of the steel in one continuous motion until the blade tip completes the stroke by passing off the steel near the guard (see figure C).

Repeat for the other side of the blade, only this time under the steel (see figure D).

USES FOR KITCHEN SHEARS

Kitchen shears are one of the most underrated tools in the kitchen and can be used for much more than just opening packages. Just be sure that if shears are used directly on food, that they are washed thoroughly with hot water and soap, before and after each use.

Snip herbs. Shred leafy greens and herbs without bruising and deliver clean cuts to ingredients like scallions, chives and basil. Perfect for quickly removing thyme leaves from fresh sprigs.

Trim a pie crust. Once you have rolled out the crust and eased it into the pan, use shears to trim the excess dough from around the edge, then tuck the ends underneath and use your fingers or a fork to crimp the crust into a pretty edge.

Cut the crust off of bread. Or cut into cubes for croutons or bread puddings.

Trim green beans or asparagus. Shears make quick work of cutting the ends off green beans, or snipping the toughest bit off asparagus

Cut fresh pasta. Cut fresh spaghetti or fettuccine noodles into manageable lengths.

Cut up raw bacon and other sliced meats. Perfect for cutting prosciutto, deli meats or other thinly sliced meats into pieces to use as a topping or in an appetizer.

DEXTER THE EDGE SINCE 1818

BASIC KNIVES & USAGE

Paring Knife
Four styles of paring knives are most common…curved, spear, sharp and clip point. Curved or Sharp paring knives may be used for finely sliced pepper rings, slivered olives and cherries. A cook's paring or speared point knife can be used to remove corn from the cob, break up heads of lettuce or cabbage, peel fruit and vegetables, cut beans, etc. A clip point knife is used for eyeing potatoes, seeding, peeling and pitting.

Utility Knife
Sharp 6" utility knife is most efficient for slicing non-solid fruits and vegetables, such as tomatoes or squash. For acid fruits a stainless steel blade is preferred. Useful for cutting melon rings, heads of lettuce into wedges or preparing cabbage.

Boning Knife
Blades vary in length from 4" to 8". Cooks simplify carving and get extra servings by boning out a roast when it is partially cooked. For boning roasts, whole hams, lamb legs, veal legs and filleting fish, a narrow blade is the best.

Butcher, Cimeter Steak Knife & Cleaver
For odd jobs in the kitchen, butcher and cimeter steak knives can be used for dicing salt pork, cubing cold meats, cutting steaks or trimming raw meat. The cleaver is used for opening lobsters, cutting poultry, etc.

Cook's Knife
Blade lengths of 8" to 12". Cook's knife has more uses than any other knife in a kitchen. Blade is wider at the handle and tapers to the point. Deep choil protects knuckles when dicing or mincing celery, onions, nuts, meats, parsley, peppers, etc.

Slicers & Carvers
Most important knife in this category is the roast beef slicer. It is used to carve rounds, boneless roasts, boiled briskets, pot roasts and standing rib roasts. The roast beef slicer has a wider blade and tends to have a more stiff, straight edge than serrated edge blades.

HACCP (HAZARD ANALYSIS OF CRITICAL CONTROL POINTS)

HACCP is a systematic approach to controlling foodborne illness. A HACCP plan is created when you have put in place a plan that documents proper procedures, using forms to track performance and compliance of such procedures. In addition the process includes specific information about who is responsible for carrying out the plan. Managers and employees then have an up-to-date document that describes procedures to be followed to ensure safe food. Managers must use the document to record all safe measures in use, as well as to describe any changes they may have made. Any corrective actions taken must also be on file and in the plan as well. By following the seven basic principles of HACCP you are on your way to serving safer food.

SEVEN PRINCIPLES BEHIND HACCP

1. Hazard Analysis: Your first step is to determine the menu items most likely to cause illness and what could go wrong with them.

2. Determine Critical Control Points: Focus on how and where to make the food safe. Cooking, cooling, reheating and storing may be critical control points.

3. Set Critical Limits: Standardize your cooking temperatures, cooling times, reheating temperatures and times, storage practices, and any other safety concerns.

4. Develop Monitoring Procedures: Determine how often you should take temperature readings, test sanitizer strength and set up forms or charts to record the data collected.

5. Take Corrective Action: Describe what to do if cooking, cooling, reheating, sanitizing or storing is out of set safe limits.

6. Establish Verification Procedures: Confirm that your HACCP plan works and that critical control points are appropriately monitored effectively and corrective actions are adequate.

7. Set Up Record Keeping System: Document procedures detailing how food is handled and prepared safely.

RECEIVING:

Before accepting deliveries, make sure the temperature is within prescribed limits. Check both surface and interior temperatures: use an Instant Read or a Pocket Digital Thermometer for a quick interior check and an Infrared Thermometer for surface temperatures.

- Refrigerated foods – no higher than 41°F (5°C).
- Frozen foods – no higher than 0°F (-17.8°C) – use a Hand-held Thermocouple Thermometer with a Frozen Food Probe for quick, easy inspection of frozen food deliveries.
- Discard dry goods if there is any dampness, discoloration or if packaging is damaged.

Remember: Always refuse foods that show any signs of spoilage!

STORING:

All foods must be properly stored to minimize the risk of bacterial growth or contamination.

- Refrigerated foods must be stored at 41°F (5°C) or lower – use separate Refrigerator Thermometers for different food storage temperatures.
- Frozen foods need an air temperature below 0°F (-17.8°C) – use two Freezer Thermometers – one at the warmest point, the other at the coldest – to monitor air temperature.
- Dry stored food should be kept at 50°F (10°C) in a well-lit, ventilated room with a maximum of 60% relative humidity. Use a Temperature and Humidity Guide Wall Thermometer or Remote Sensor Thermometer to monitor storage room temperatures and humidity levels.

Remember: Check storage temperature at least twice each day!

PREPARING/COOKING:

Foodborne pathogens are killed by safe cooking temperatures. Use a Deep Fry Dial Thermometer to check deep frying oil temperatures to prevent cooking surface of foods too quickly. Use an Infrared Thermometer to ensure grills, fryers, and ovens maintain the right temperature for uniform cooking. Use Pocket Digitals, Thermocouple or Disposable Thermometers to ensure that 2014 FDA Guidelines for safe internal temperatures are consistently met.

- Poultry, stuffed meats and fish, wild game: 165°F (74°C) for at least 15 seconds.
- Pork, ground meat and inspected game meats, veal, lamb, mutton, eggs for immediate use: 155°F (68°C) for at least 15 seconds.
- Whole beef and pork roast: 145°F (63°C) for at least 3 minutes.

SERVING/HOLDING:

Hold foods out of the Danger Zone – hot foods above 140°F (60°C) and cold foods below 41°F (5°C) – to inhibit bacteria. Always use thermometers – a Hot/Cold Holding Cabinet Thermometer or Hand-Held Thermocouple Thermometer with an Air Probe – to check air temperatures in holding cabinets and under heat lamp warmers.

Remember: Built-in Thermostats may be misleading because they only measure air temperature immediately adjacent to sensors which may not be uniform throughout the holding area

COOLING:

After cooking, chill foods – especially meats – as rapidly as possible to minimize their time in the Danger Zone and limit bacterial growth. Chill from 140°F (60°C) to 70°F (21°C) within 2 hours, then from 70°F (21°C) to 41°F (5°C) within 4 hours. Use a Pocket Digital Thermometer, or a Hand-Held Thermocouple Thermometer with Interchangeable Probes.

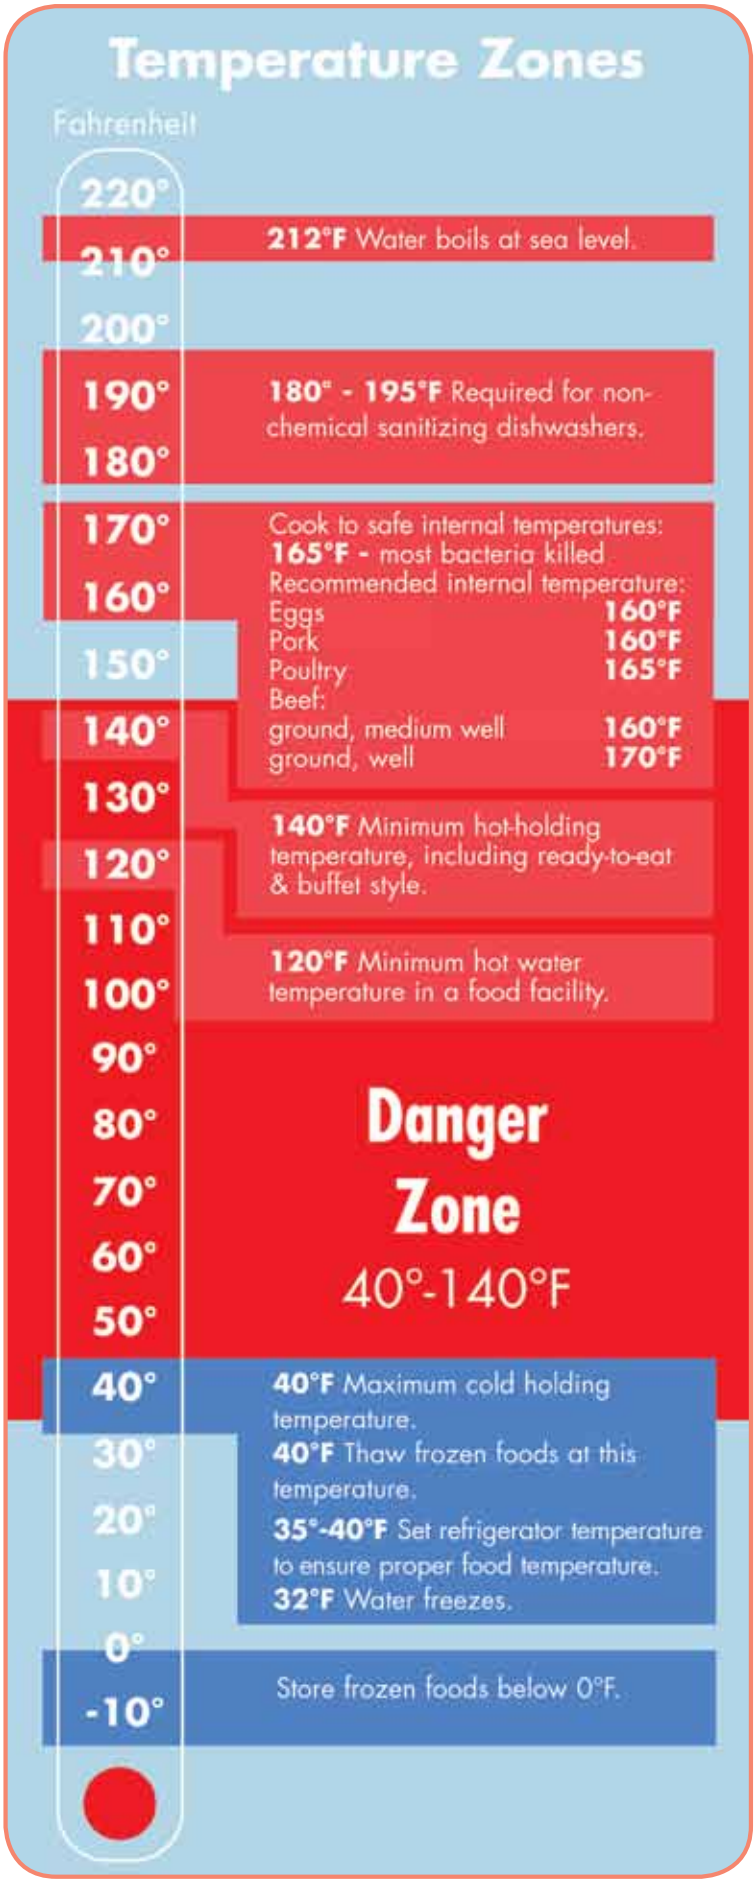
Remember: The larger the surface area, the faster the food will cool – cut roasts into smaller portions and distribute liquids among several smaller pans to speed chill-time.

REHEATING:

Some bacteria survive cooking and multiply to dangerous levels during chill-down. Food must be reheated to an internal temperature of 165°F (74°C) to eliminate new pathogens. Use a Bi-Therm, Pocket Digital or Hand-Held Thermocouple Thermometer to ensure all foods are reheated adequately. Reheating kills pathogens, it won't eliminate toxins, such as Staphylococcus aureus, so remember these important rules:

- Never reheat food more than 2 days old
- Never add old foods to new
- Reheat foods only once – then discard
- Enforce strict personal hygiene standards

Remember: An Infrared Thermometer is ideal for quickly and inconspicuously checking surface temperatures in holding cabinets, on salad bars and steam tables.



HANDLING GUIDELINES

Maintain cold foods at or below 40°F. Maintain hot foods at or above 140°F.

Potentially hazardous hot food should be cooled rapidly. 140°F cooled to 70°F within 2 hours. 70°F cooled to 40°F within 4 hours. Using shallow pans with a product depth of no greater than 2 inches, the food should be placed in a refrigerator uncovered or loosely covered during the cooling process.

Never defrost food at room temperature. Use a refrigerator, continuously running cold water, a microwave or cook from frozen state. Frozen food that has been thawed should be cooked or otherwise processed before it may be refrozen.

Cook foods to the proper internal temperature. Use a metal probe thermometer to ensure food is cooked properly.

Wash your hands thoroughly with hot soapy water (before and after handling food) for a minimum of 20 seconds.

Avoid handling food when: you are ill, have a skin infection, or have cuts on the hands.

Never cross contaminate from raw to cooked products.

Wash, rinse and sanitize cutting boards and knives between every use.

Reheat leftovers to 165°F internal temperature or higher, stirring constantly to cook evenly or microwave to 195°F. Never reheat leftovers more than once.

Keep kitchens, dining areas and storage rooms free from insects and rodents. Store chemicals away from food.

FIFO–FIRST IN, FIRST OUT FOOD STORAGE

Proper labeling from receiving to serving helps to ensure food is safely used as part of a proper First In, First Out (FIFO) food storage and handling system following HACCP guidelines.

What is the FIFO Principle?

FIFO stands for "First In, First Out." The FIFO principle is based on using foods that are received or prepared first. For this to be successful, the "use-by" dates should be clearly marked on the food container. New foods should always be placed behind older foods on shelves to make it easy for employees to pull the correct food. According to FDA Model Food Code, the date marked on the container or food item should be the use-by or discard date, not the date the food is prepared.

How Does the System Work?

Use the day-of-the-week labels to indicate use-by dates. For example: If today is Monday and you are labeling an item with a 3-day shelf life, a Wednesday label should be applied to the item to indicate that the product should be used by the end of the day on Wednesday.

FOOD EQUIPMENT TIPS

The equipment in your kitchen should meet industry and regulatory standards. The following are some standard NSF requirements for food prep and storage equipment.

- Food Contact and food-splash surfaces must be easy to reach, easy to clean, nontoxic, non-absorbent, corrosion resistant, non-reactive to food or cleaning and should not leave a color, odor or taste to food.
- Should be rounded with tightly sealed edges and corners.
- Should be designed with solid and liquid waste traps that are easy to remove.

CONSIDER REPLACING ITEMS IF:

- They are worn out
- They no longer meet local health codes
- They make it more difficult to adhere to your operation's HACCP plan

EASY LETTUCEKUTTER™

- Scalloped blades and clean slicing action cut 1" squares with no crushing and no bruising
- Angled, cast aluminum legs with no-slip feet provide stable cutting platform
- Manual locking pin keeps pusher block safely in place until operator releases for cutting
- Interlocked blades avoid flexing
- Cleanup is easy

USE AND CARE OF NON-STICK PANS

Try to follow these rules and you'll find that your nonstick pans will last longer and be more enjoyable to use when cooking.

1. Don't use metal on your nonstick pan.

This is the most important rule to remember. Metal utensils can easily scratch and ruin the nonstick pan's surface. Instead, use nonstick pan-friendly materials such as wood, rubber, silicone, nylon, or plastic.

2. Clean your nonstick pans with safe scouring pads.

Do not use steel wool, metal scouring pads or sharp scrapers. If food is really stuck, allow the pan to soak for a bit. Then use only scouring pads that say "nonstick pan safe" on them; or use a sponge instead.

3. Store your nonstick pans properly.

Store your pans hanging, with plenty of space between them. If they must be stacked, consider placing a paper towel between pans to keep from scratching the nonstick surface.

4. Avoid high heat when using your nonstick frying pans.

Most nonstick cookware is made for low to medium heat cooking. Too much heat can cause the nonstick coating to bubble and lose some of its nonstick properties. Follow the manufacturer's directions for the safest, best results.

5. Don't use your nonstick pots or pans under a broiler.

Temperatures higher than 450° F may damage the nonstick surface, causing it to boil or flake and may also void the manufacturers warranty. Once again, it's best to check what the manufacturer's recommendations are before subjecting your pan to extreme heat.

USE AND CARE OF ALUMINUM

Don't let acidic or salty foods remain in aluminum cookware for long periods of time – it can cause pitting and discoloration. Use cooking tools made of wood, plastic or smooth-edged metal. Prolong the original shape of your aluminum cookware by allowing it to cool before washing or soaking – this will help prevent warping. Wash and dry after each use to preserve appearance.

PORTION CONTROL

The key to profit control is portion control. Using a sandwich shop/deli as an example, if an employee serves ¼ ounce overweight with each serving of sandwich meat and 400 customers are served in a day, 6¼ pounds of additional food has been used. If the product cost $1.50 per pound, the loss over the year would be $3,420!. Weigh all ingredients in a recipe to ensure accurate measurements.

BAKING TIPS

• Don't crowd the oven. The pans should never touch each other or the sides of the oven, or be placed over or under each other on the racks.

• Grease pans using a piece of paper towel, rub a small amount of shortening, butter or margarine evenly over the bottom and on sides of pans, if directed. A small amount of pan spray may be used and spread over the pan, also using the paper towel technique.

• Prevent sharp edges on muffins, bar cookies or quick breads by greasing the muffin cups or pans only on the bottom and halfway up the sides so the batter is higher than the greaseline. This is one time you might not want to use a pan spray.

STANDARD US SHEET PAN SIZES

Full Size	26" x 18" x 1"
Two thirds/Three Quarter size	21" x 15"
Half Size	18" x 13" x 1"
Quarter Size	9" x 13" x 1"

A sheet pan that has a continuous lip around all four sides may also be called a jelly roll pan. A half size pan is approximately the same size as mass-market baking sheets found in supermarkets.

Care and Maintenance
It's best to hand wash aluminum sheet pans with a nylon pad or other soft, abrasive scrub pad. Don't run aluminum sheets through the dishwasher, as the detergent and heat tend to discolor the metal.

Baking on a layer of parchment will keep your pans spotless and create a nonstick finish (and small amount of insulation) for cookies.

PIZZA PANS

Aluminum pizza pans are available in several different types of aluminum, but it's best to buy high quality hard-anodized pans. Another key feature to look for is holes in the pan. This allows the crust to become crispy as it cooks. Aluminum pizza pans work best with hand-tossed and thin crusts. A pizza screen allows air to circulate for a more evenly baked and crispy crust. Deep-dish pizza pans have deep sides, ranging from one to two inches deep. These pans are best suited for making Chicago-style pizza.

Makes Your Life Easier!

COMMERCIAL FLAT TOP GRILL CLEANING INSTRUCTIONS

After each use
Scrape the griddle clean with a grill scraper each time cooked food is removed.

After each day
Remove and empty the grease container and clean the grease trough.

Once a week

1. Start by shutting off the grill's heat source. Put on heat resistant gloves, in case there are still warm areas of the grill. Use a grill scraper or stainless steel scrubber to remove cooked-on food particles, scraping all debris into the collection bin.
2. Remove the grease trap and debris collection bin and wash them in a commercial dish washing unit. Check the flue and grease drain area for burnt debris and clogs and remove them as well.
3. Use a damp cleaning towel to wipe away residue.
4. Read the manufacturer's guide for any specific instructions about how to clean your grill. Avoid using soap and water as it can affect the flavor of food. Some commercial grills can be cleaned using a grill brick. Other grills may be cleaned using a grill brush or stainless steel scrubber. Some grills should not be cleaned with a grill brick or grill brush or anything abrasive to protect their surface. With this type of commercial grill you may need special grill cleaner and soapy cleanser in order to clean them.
5. If using a high-temperature grill cleaning product, read the directions and apply it properly. Pure lemon juice or vinegar are food safe and also work well at high heat to break up grease. Typically, multiple applications using a smaller amount of cleaner works better than applying more of the cleaner than is directed.
6. Use a stainless steel scrubber, brush or grill brick to work the cleaner into the surface of the grill in a circular motion. Choose a grill brush that can withstand the high heat or a grill scouring brick that won't cause damage to your specific commercial flat top's surface.
7. Squeegee the surface of the griddle to remove the dissolved grease and cleaner, then wipe down the entire grill with a dust-free kitchen towel.
8. Return grease and debris traps once they come out of the dishwasher.
9. After the weekly cleaning is a good time to re-season the griddle if it needs it. Otherwise, coat the griddle plate with a thin film of cooking oil to prevent rust.

MAINTAINING YOUR CLEANING EQUIPMENT

Cleaning tools can harbor dirt, bacteria, debris and odors if they are not cared for properly.
Also, the better the tools are maintained, the longer they will perform (and the less you need to spend on buying replacements).
Vacuum cleaners: Replace bag when it is ⅓ full. Bagless vacuums should be emptied after each use.
Remove strings, carpet yarns, etc. wrapped around beater bar and check belt for cuts, changing when needed.
Brooms: Store brooms off of the ground. Standing a broom on its bristles will cause bent and split bristles and decrease their cleaning effectiveness.
Mops: Hang mops to dry. Never store on the floor or in the mop bucket. Mop heads can be cleaned in the washing machine using plain detergent and hot water. If washing multiple mop heads, place each one in an old pair of pantyhose or a mesh bag to avoid them getting tangled up.

HOW TO USE A PLUNGER

Plungers work by moving water, not air. If you are clearing a slow drain, add enough water that you have some standing for the moment. If you are clearing a toilet, you want some liquid in the bowl, but not so much that it will splash out while you work. Do not flush a clogged or blocked toilet to add water! Fill a bucket in a sink, then add only as much as required to work the plunger, or bail out a brimming toilet to get some working space.

When applying the plunger to the drain and forming your initial seal, you want to fill the plunger chamber with liquid. Slide the plunger into standing water at an angle to scoop some up, removing as much of the ineffective, compressible air as possible.

- Surround drains in floors and wide basins with a twisted wet towel when using a ball-plunger
- A small amount of petroleum jelly around the lip of the plunger or around the drain can help seal tiny but troublesome cracks
- Hold stiff rubber or plastic plungers under running hot water to free them up for easier plunging

COMMERCIAL KITCHEN LIGHTING

The right lighting is absolutely key for commercial kitchens, which must meet rigorous standards of cleanliness, as well as cooking appealing foods. Besides providing a clear view of the food being cooked, good lighting also helps prevent injuries, such as cuts and burns. Most commercial kitchen lighting relies on large fluorescent fixtures for general light, and track lighting for task areas. In many restaurant kitchens, these are utilitarian fixtures, but in some restaurants part of the experience is being able to see the chefs at work.
If the kitchen is visible to the guests, kitchen light fixtures should be in keeping with the overall decor of the establishment.

- When the towel does not turn blue, it's time to change the sanitizer solution
- Works with quaternary ammonia (Quat) only

WHY GAUGE ISN'T ALWAYS IMPORTANT

Film thickness is no longer a satisfactory standard for judging overall strength. The development of improved LLDPE resin in the liner industry has completely changed the standard method for selecting the correct can liners. These materials have allowed manufacturers to produce thinner, lighter trash bags which are stronger and more durable than the thicker bags previously made from low density resin. This is why gauge is no longer an effective way to determine liner strength. Instead of stating actual thickness, it is now generally accepted to use terminology such as "Light", "Medium", "Heavy", and "Extra Heavy".

Each manufacturer has its own blend formulations, so the proportions of these materials vary from one producer to another. The best way to determine the correct liner is to actually test some suggested samples.

General Industry Strength Rating	Linear Low Density Mil Thickness Range	Old Low Density Strength Rating
Regular	.35 to .50	1.25
Medium	.45 to .75	1.5
Heavy	.60 to 1.0	2.0
Heavy Plus	.74 to 1.3	2.5
Extra Heavy	.90 to 1.5	3.0

BAG SEALS

Star Seal (or X-Seal)

This unique design eliminates gaps along the seal where leaks can occur.

Flat Seal

These bags are generally leak-proof, but are very clumsy to handle.

Gusseted Seal

A flat style bag with both sides tucked in to form gussets.

DEFINITIONS

It's important to know a little bit about what can liners are actually made of, and how thicknesses are measured. That way you can determine which of the polyethylene resins and liner gauges will work best for your particular application.

Resin - The basic raw material from which can liners are made. There are 3 types of resins: Low Density, Linear Low Density and High Density Polyethylene.

Linear Low Density Polyethylene - This resin is highly puncture and tear resistant. These properties make this the best choice for applications where additional strength and stretch are required. Works well for waste with sharp or jagged edges.

High Density Polyethylene - Liners made from this resin are generally available in lower gauges, and are more temperature resistant.

Low Density Polyethylene - An older resin still used mainly in lower end utility liners. It has largely been replaced by Linear Low Density Polyethylene.

Post Consumer and Post-Industrial Polyethylene - This is made from recycled post-consumer plastics such as milk jugs and industrial scraps. These are reprocessed and blended with other types of resins to produce new high quality liners.

Gauge - A term used to describe the thickness of a liner. Low density liners are measured in mils, while High Density liners are generally measured in microns.

Mil - Measurement based on one hundred thousandths of an inch (.000). For example, a .55 mil bag would be 55 thousandths of an inch thick. Common low density liners range from .37 to 1.8 mil in thickness.

Micron - Based on thousandth of a Millimeter (.000000). High Density liners usually range from 6 to 22 microns in thickness.

ADVANTAGES OF LINEAR LOW DENSITY CAN LINERS

1. Maximum puncture and stretch resistance compared to High Density.
2. Multi-purpose applications
3. Most prevalent type of film used in the industry today.
4. Manufactured in a wide variety of colors.
5. Compared to traditional low density film, linear low can be run at a lighter gauge with equal strength.

Suggested applications:

- Sticks & rough yard trimmings
- Metal w/ sharp edges
- Nails & Bolts
- Objects w/ rough corners or protrusions
- Small rocks
- Plastic eating utensils
- Abusive transport conditions
- Food w/ rough edges (ex: crab legs)
- Glass bottles

ADVANTAGES OF HIGH DENSITY CAN LINERS

1. HMW/HD liners are about 3 times stronger and more durable than ordinary polyethylene liners of the same thickness.
2. HMW/HD liners require two-thirds less petroleum based raw material to manufacture. Accordingly, they can be made about one-third the thickness of ordinary low density polyethylene liners, so they require only about one-third the ordinary shipping, storage and warehousing cost.
3. Substantial cost savings per liner.
4. When they are properly made, HMW/HD liners will rarely "zipper" if punctured.
5. Extremely wide range of temperature resistance from -40°F to 212°F (boiling).
6. USDA and FDA approved (natural colored liners).

Suggested applications:

- Cans w/out rough edges
- Paper
- Paper plates/cups
- Food
- Dirt
- Grass
- Rags/Cloth items
- Smooth heavy object
- Great for office waste baskets

MANUAL DISHWASHING

Manual dishwashing is done in foodservice operations to clean and sanitize dishes, smallwares, and utensils especially when there is not a dishmachine. Foodservice employees must use proper dishwashing procedures and monitor to ensure that sanitizing is done.

Set-up and use the three-compartment sink in the following manner:

- In the first compartment, wash with a clean detergent solution at or above 110°F or at the temperature specified by the detergent manufacturer.
- In the second compartment, rinse with clean water.
- In the third compartment, sanitize with a sanitizing solution mixed at a concentration specified on the manufacturer's label or by immersing in hot water at or above 171°F for 30 seconds. Test the chemical sanitizer concentration using an appropriate test strip.
